

Transient Students

Transient Student: A student who is currently enrolled at another college or university and seeks credit that will transfer back to his or her home institution is considered a transient student. Transient students are temporary students who generally only attend Wallace Community College Selma for one semester. For admission, applicants must have on file at the institution a completed application for admission, the primary form of identification, and a transient letter of permission listing approved courses. Transient letters must be submitted prior to registration for each semester a student attends Wallace Community College Selma. Any transient student failing to provide appropriate information may be administratively withdrawn. Transient students are considered non-degree seeking and are not eligible for federal financial aid.
